

R. relies on his own mind
ONLY b/c he won't consult others / tradition / religion. Won't take (or ask for) advice.

- Alienation

- Pride

- Wants to be special + different (a common problem w/ young people)

THINKS he's doing something grand, but it's dumb + small.

BOTH Sonia + Dunya ^{almost} sell themselves to save their family from poverty (sacrifice)

He has NO guidance b/c he's abandoned the church,
his family, his friends.

He's "Self-guided": Not smart

Even if Alyona deserved it, Lizavetta certainly did NOT!
(they're OPPOSITES!)

proves right away that his thinking was wrong!

While Dost. was in Siberia, ^{exiled/ imprisoned} he met many peasant criminals + "intellectual" criminals. ^{due to anti-Gov. activity} the noticed ^{find solace in this} easily admit their guilt, while the latter will not. they don't agree w/ the why? if God's Not real, society's rules man himself can decide his own morality + do as he likes.

[1866] publication

R. wants to change the world, be a Blb man, like Napoleon... but he's a poor nobody...

He's learned a bit about Utilitarianism + "rationalism" (god is dead; this, "great" men can transcend moral + legal boundaries as they see fit.) ^{ends justify means}

having to kill Lizavetta shakes him

+ Socialism/Marxism (to kill the pawnbroker + take her $ + redistribute it = a win for the poor + revolutionary act against the rich)

Wants to be caught vs. feels he's not truly guilty (due to his Western ideas)

blc she's a prostitute

Sonia = outcast + guilty (like him!) = he's drawn to her. Her religious beliefs help her cope. Ultimately, he comes around to her way too.

After some time in Siberia, he's able to feel guilt, freed from Western ideas / atheist ideas

Dost. is saying the "intellectual" criminals are just the same as / as bad as petty criminals - selfish + greedy - not high minded

His dreams were dreadful + hubristic

Napoleon great man theory (Ubermensch) nihilism
The Western ideas were WRONG + just excuses / justification for doing bad, being selfish, + greedy.
Socialism
Utilitarianism
etc.
strip yourself of these justifications
+ TRULY JUDGE YOURSELF

I, I, I...
I want...

Extreme Individualism + YOUR MOTIVES
is NOT Good for us. We need love, community, + religion!

P. had too big an appetite!

DON'T just follow your dreams + try to get all you want @ any cost... That's selfish, greedy, + immoral

PSYCHOLOGICAL / "INSIDE" focus on the criminal's mind / thought process

Nihilism / Nietzsche's Ubermensch

Rationalism - Thought $\neq$ Experience. you may think you've got it all figured out, but you know nothing w/o experience

(P. thought the killing would be fine)

Why's Sonia tell him to kiss the ground? (pagan earth mother idea)
